

BEST PRACTICES

2020-21

- In this session our college had begun two best practices which are very Eco- friendly as well as money savings. The purpose of these best practices is to create awareness about the importance of money and its savings. and the importance of books, papers and the tress and bamboos which yield papers.

These two practices are as follows.

FIRST BEST PRACTICE OF THE YEAR

1. Making Bouquet and Garlands from College Garden's Flowers

Objectives:

- Saving Money of the college.
- To expose the Creativity of Students
- Developing a healthy habit.
- Creating Best from Waste
- To make the college and its students self-sufficient

Context:

- i) Whereas each student has some unique quality of creativity
- ii) Since the government has been asking the institute to be self sufficient
- iii) Since the college has the large garden and greenery with having variety of flowers. The college has been using the garlands and bouquet made by its students.
- iv) The proper use of college garden flowers lest it would have been wasted.

- v) The college has decided a good culture in the direction of self-sufficiency.

Evidence of Success:

- i) Since the college has begun this best practice of making its own garlands and flowers; many students come forward to make garlands and bouquets.
- ii) The students get motivated and inspired when they are praised and admired by the guests who come in the college at the time of any program or function in the college.
- iii) By this best practice the hidden talents of the girl students emerge. Many guests have enquired about the students whoever have made the bouquets and garlands.
- iv) The college has saved considerable amount of money since this practice has begun. The college gives some concession in admission fees to such creative students.

SECOND BEST PRACTICE OF THE YEAR

2. Transferring Books from 3rd Year to 2nd & from 2nd Year to 1st Year Students.

Objectives:

- i) To save money of the students
- ii) To earn money by selling old books
- iii) To develop a good habit of keeping books in good condition
- iv) To create the feeling of helpfulness among the students.
- v) To make students benign and kind towards each other.

- vi) To create love for books among students

Context:

- i) Since the books have become so expensive the students can buy old books from their senior students
- ii) Since money saving is important and also earning money is also important.
- iii) In this best practice both; the buyer and the seller get benefitted
- iv) The students should be kind and benign for each other. This practice develops a benign feeling among the students

Evidence of Success:

- i) We have began this best practice of buying and selling old books since last two years and it is still continues.
- ii) In this best practice both the seller and the buyer students are satisfied.
- iii) The students save time in buying books for he or she gets the books in time in the college.
- iv) The students begin to study as soon as he or she gets books other wise he or she would have wasted their time.
- v) Some students have become philanthropists by donating their books freely to their junior friends.
